Weed Free Hay

by Amy Farella

The Northeast Invasive Plant Committee (NEIPC) and the Northwest Invasive Plant Council (NWIPC) have partnered together to coordinate the production of certified weed free hay and straw. The goal is to prevent the introduction and spread of invasive species into the vast "weed free" backcountry areas of northern BC. These efforts are thwarted when hay containing weed seeds is unloaded at trailheads and packed into the remote backcountry to feed horses or when weed infested straw is used in reclamation projects.

The 2011 pilot project trained inspectors to inspect hay and straw fields for the invasive species listed under the BC Weed Control Act or the Forest Range and Practices Act (FRPA). The field under inspection was checked for plant parts (seeds, stolons, roots) that could grow into new weeds. In total 179 ha of fields were certified as weed free.

For more information on purchasing Certified Weed Free hay or straw or for information about the Weed Free Pilot please contact the project coordinator Amy Farella, resources@nwipc.org or 1-866-44WEEDS.

AGM by Candle Light

by Ann Grover

The Annual General Meeting of the Peace River Forage Association was held December 1, 2011, at the Farmington Hall.

It was conceivably the shortest AGM in the history of AGM's as the power went out just before we sat down to the hearty supper of stew and cheese biscuits. (Thank you Shirley Smithard for the delicious meal.) A rummage in the storage room turned up a handful of Christmas tea-lights, and everyone gathered cozily to enjoy their supper.

Rick Kantz led the AGM by the light of a couple of flashlights, abandoning the agenda due to the power outage. An abbreviated discussion followed regarding the great results of this past year's 3D wildlife fencing. The financial reports were accelerated through to upcoming events of the PRFA, which include the Fundraising Supper and Auction to be held on January 14, 2012, a Genomics Seminar with John Basarab and Tom Lynch-Staunton on February 21, 2012, the Summer Livestock and Forage Tour, June 8 & 9 and a Livestock Handling Clinic with Dillon Biggs on June 23 & 24.

There were several lessons to be learned. The best laid plans may go awry. Productivity is not always proportionate to the length of the meeting. Always carry a flashlight.

The Road to "Legal Meat" Production & Beyond: Sustainable Food Safety for BC

Presentation at the Peace River Forage Association's AGM by Shirley Hamblin, Industry Support Leader, Sustainable Food Safety Program, Houston, BC

"The Journey Begins": Code of Practice for the Slaughter & Poultry Processing Industries

2004: Meat Inspection Regulation enacted with grace period 2004-2007;

2005: Meat Industry Enhancement Strategy (MIES) formed;

2006: Meat Transition Assistance Program (MTAP) and Help Desk formed;

2007: Class C Licences; Enhanced Feed Ban; Ministry of Environment Code of Practice;

2008: Class C Licenses revised (end point & bubble zone);

2009: Remote Sites Consultation; BC Abattoir Association formed;

2010: Class D & E licences created; MTAP closes applications;

2011: MIES closes, Sustainable Food Safety Program; BCAISR;

2012: MTAP closes all claims.

Meat Inspection Regulation (MIR) 2004

All meat for sale for human consumption in BC has to be from a licensed, inspected facility.

Rationale: mitigate incidence of animal- and food-borne disease outbreaks via ante-mortem and post-mortem inspection (before & after death).

Intent or desired outcomes: increased food safety, traceability, increased consumer confidence, viable meat processing sector, and consistency across province.

Impact

Slaughterers' choices:

- 1. Give up
- 2. Upgrade abattoir
- 3. Build new abattoir
- 4. Go underground

BC Food Processors Association role with MIES & MTAP programs = make it work. There were approximately 300 "slaughterers" in addition to the provincial and federal licensed abattoir operators in this province. Some had health authority inspected facilities, some were cut & wrap operators who provided farm kill services, some were farmers who slaughtered and /or did their own cut & wrap & sold their meat locally.

Program goals:

MIES – Meat Industry Enhancement Strategy & MTAP – Meat Transition Assistance Program ($$)

Current Licencing Status

Facility Licence Type	2004	Since 2005	Nov 2011
Class A or B	11	39	50
Class C temporary	N/A	20	5
Class D and E licences	N/A	63	63
Federally licensed	10	1	11

Note: Two federal facilities recently delisted & took provincial licences (Lawrence Meats and Pitt Meadows)

- 1. Reasonable access to provincially licensed slaughter facilities for all BC regions.
- 2. Across all species.
- 3. Facilitate transition of unlicensed slaughter facilities to licensed facilities.

Key agencies

- Ministry of Health: administer food safety policy;
- Ministry of Agriculture: assist implementation; production permits;
- Ministry of Environment: administer waste management policy;
- Centre for Disease Control: manage A/B licensing, inspection;
- Regional Health Authorities: manage D/E licensing;
   MIR enforcement;
- ♦ Canadian Food Inspection Agency: field assessment, inspection, SRM waste management;
- Agricultural Land Commission: farm land use including waste.

Key associations

BC Association of Abattoirs

♦Represent Licensed Class A & B abattoirs

Small Scale Food Processor Association

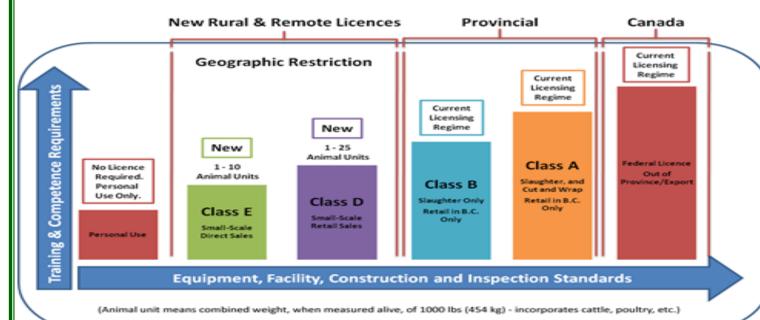

- ♦Small-scale processors
- ♦ Deliver Food Safety Systems Implementation Program

The Road to "Legal Meat" Continued

Graduated Licencing System

Note: Class C temporary licences are being phased out.

BC's Meat Sector

- Dynamic, unstable, financially vulnerable system;
- High facility costs, tight margins, limited markets;
- Sustainability requires business case/policy fit;
- Provincial variation within facilities;
- Red meat and poultry separate realities;
- Producers and processors are interdependent, but few are aligned;
- ♦ Classic supply-demand capacity challenge;
- Processor anchors the value chain.

Class D & E provide a local service without a major investment. However, Class A & B sustainability is were focus needs to be given the capital input into facilities. Meat Inspection Regulation (MIR) is not an operation lens and it applies to all livestock and meat. Whereas the industry works by commodity, with supply management not "meat sector" management. It's a span of production across livestock groups. Health based policy is constructed differently compared agriculture based policy, which is constructed across commodities. Without the processor, there is no point in raising the animal for meat.

Outlook

- Class D/E for on-farm : challenges in some areas;
- Uncertainty, turbulence prior to new inspectorate (due 2013);
- ♦ Larger A/B threatened by change in inspectorate;
- Ongoing policy challenge: different business types;
- Underground will continue: need for enhanced enforcement;
- Organizational cultures tend to drift apart food safety/ security can link agriculture, food, health, land use, small business, tourism and more – need for intentional bridging.

Desired outcomes

- ♦ Infrastructure for a stronger sector & communities
- ♦ Trusted system that adds value to product;
- Strong partnerships within and between industry and government;
- ♦ Greater community resilience.

Challenges and questions

- How much licensed slaughter capacity is needed?
- What does each business case require?
- How can government balance compliance with enforcement (carrot, stick)?
- What kind of provincial inspection system is needed for Class A & B abattoir sustainability?
- How can industry work more effectively together, and with government, for sector stability and sustainability?

Thank you Hanna Kabzems for converting this powerpoint presentation to an article for us.

Highlights from the Forage Goods & Services Auction

by Sandra Burton

In spite of the cold weather, more tables & chairs were needed for the crowd at the Tower Lake Hall.

Once again the Forage Goods and Services Auction was a huge success. This event seems to follow a recognizable pattern. When the time comes to organize it, the directors get embarrassed about asking people for donations and they wonder if we should cancel it. But after a few phone calls to let people know about the proposed cancelation, we find that Nelda Bennett is very excited about some artwork that she wants to donate, Rose Fuhr is working on a handmade quilt, Ben Hansen has been busy with some creative welding and Arthur Hadland has some seed set aside. So back to the directors, I report "the members really want to have this auction. It's such great way to spend a cold winter evening, that it really isn't about the money anymore." And off we go. Nelda makes more calls, I make more calls, the donations start pouring in and the enthusiasm is infectious. One improvement at this auction was more youth and young families joining us for the fun. We also had more creative donations of services: i.e. the precious gift of people's time.

Rick Kantz provided a lively commentary as our auctioneer, assisted by models (oops! I mean spotters) Richard Kabzems and Dale Hansen.

Sue Hansen and Chris Thomson were a great team keeping up with the action and clerking for the auction. Thank you to Allen and Sheena Pratt, Tower Lake Hall Association who hosted the refreshment bar.

Auction Highlights cont'd

The auctioneer late for the auction... by Nelda Bennett

The forage auction seems to draw out the talented artists, potters, wood workers, welders and artisans in our midst. Bidding was fierce for the art cards that were painted or sketched by Nelda Bennett, Sue Hansen and Eva Kruse and for an original painting by Connie Shortt (examples here).

Several items in the silent auction appealed to the kids, and Jared Petersen had the biggest grin when he beat out Rick Thomson for the fishing rod.

There was no shortage of agriculture items on offer like seed, hay bales, farm labour and tools. There was clothing on offer as well, and one local woman must have been cold when she tried to run off with another woman's jacket purchase.

Nelda "enjoyed the way the auctioneer was so inventive and entertaining in reading the crowd. He even brought his wife and parents, so what more could we ask for?" Arnold added "I've got no complaints, which is quite something for me!"

The highlight for folks from the west was getting out and off the ranch... in fact some got to talking so much with friends after the auction, they forgot to pay for their purchases. But that is ok, we know where you live.

Proceeds of this auction will go towards the Forage First newsletter, website updating and also put money on the table for negotiating matching funds for our R & D projects. After hall expenses, the auction raised $5100.

Blending Family Goals With Waterfowl & Wildlife by Ernest Nimitz

The Leonard and Molly Donaldson Farm in the Valleyview District near the Kiskatinaw River:

Establishing, developing and maintaining wildlife habitat can be a full time vocation and involve a lifetime of work and pleasure. This is the case with the Donaldsons.

Leonard comes from pioneer stock; his father and grandfather were in the Dawson Creek area before 1920, and Leonard has lived in the district north and west of Dawson Creek adjacent to the Kiskatinaw River all of his life.

Historically it looks like this farm was part of the wintering area for bison, elk, deer, moose and Native Canadians due to the good supply of food, water and shelter.

The Donaldsons have been interested in waterfowl, songbirds and ungulates, plus beavers, and small mammals for many years. During their working life they were grain farmers with some canola; always wildlife enthusiasts! Now in retirement, they are still wildlife enthusiasts and reside in a nice farm home well protected by a mature multi-row deciduous and evergreen shelterbelt.

Transitions & retirement:

As retirement approached from an active farming life,

Leonard was concerned that the wildlife and waterfowl habitat on their farm should be maintained into the future and he needed to figure out a way to do it. Over the years, he had become familiar with Ducks Unlimited Canada via Murray Clark and the good work that they were involved with in British Columbia, creating habitat for waterfowl and mammals.

As decision time arrived, Leonard decided that Ducks Unlimited Canada was his best option to preserve his farmland as good waterfowl and good moose - deer - elk - songbird - beaver habitat for the long term. He did not want to see his farmland be cleared of all trees and brush corner to corner, and completely drained, just so that it could be part of a bigger grain farm.

A working partnership:

An agreement was made whereby Ducks Unlimited Canada (with the cooperation of the BC government) would purchase five quarters of the farm. Ducks manages these lands for the waterfowl and tame hay production, plus a sixth quarter retained by the Donaldsons. Leonard, Molly and their son, Roland, and his family live on an adjacent half section. Two other 40 acre parcels were also retained for wildlife habitat values, closer to the Kiskatinaw by the Donaldsons.

So today, we have a lot of waterfowl ponds created by DUC for ducks and other water birds (200 acres total when full). There are also several hundred acres of alfalfa and grass hay to cut after mid July each summer to allow waterfowl nesting first in the late spring and early summer. Overall, a connected area of ponds, waterways and wetlands interspersed in the hay producing uplands of the entire six quarters.

The end result:

The DUC agreement has worked out to be a good solution for the waterfowl, wildlife and the Donaldson families.

New Hats & New for EFP

by Kari Bondaroff

Hello again to all the Forage First readers. It has been a while since I have been given the opportunity to write for you. To you avid readers, I have been introduced to you many times as, Kari Bondaroff, Range Agrologist with the Ministry of Forests and Range (at that time), Kari Bondaroff, Regional Agrologist, with the Ministry of Agriculture and Lands (at that time), Kari Bondaroff, Manure Maven, Kari Bondaroff, Senior Spatial Analyst, with the Ministry of Agriculture, and finally, Kari Bondaroff, Sheep Producer. This time, I would like to introduce myself with 2 new and separate hats. I have recently made a career change back to my Education background as a School District 59 Teacher at Peace View Elementary. As well, I have taken part in some very exciting training opportunities in Abbotsford and am on my way to being an Environmental Farm Planning Advisor for the Peace River Region.

For me, this program highlights the reasons that I wanted to work in Agriculture. This program offers free planning advisors to assist producers in understanding the environmental impacts that are occurring and can be reduced, by assisting producers to create an Environmental Farm Plan (EFP) pertaining to the individuals farm. This plan is a snap-shot in time that allows the producer to set goals to improve their current practices and better plan their improvements in the future. Education, collaboration, teamwork, and desire to better farming practices and environmental impacts, I ask you, what could be better?

I look forward to working with you all and hope that you at least take the opportunity to pick up the phone, or email me, to start the communications about the Environmental Planning Process, and how it can better your farming practices. I can be reached by phone at (250)467-3918, or by email at Kari.Bondaroff@gmail.com.
